

How To Hide An Elephant

Narrator:

The Greenville Zoo was closing, and the animals would soon be moved to new homes. Sarah the elephant had lived at the zoo all her life, but the news of the move gave her an idea.

Sarah:

"I want to see the world."

Narrator:

Yes, Sarah wanted to travel. She wanted a vacation. Sarah paced back and forth in the elephant yard.

Sarah:

"I'm tired of people staring at me."

Narrator:

She longed to travel in the mountains. She wanted to go to the beach. As Sarah thought about all the wonderful places she had never seen, a new thought popped into her head; if she visited those places, she would be the only elephant for miles around. Imagine how people would stare at her.

Sarah:

"I am very shy."

Mouse:

"I go everywhere, but no one sees me,"